Lagers-/lå′gêr/n.

Bottom fermenting yeast that works at lower temperatures (41-48 °F) than ale yeast. Due to a slower metabolic rate the yeast takes longer to ferment while eating a larger percentage of the sugars. This generally leaves the beer with a drier, simpler taste that is cleaner to the palate.

Ales-/ ál/ n.

A top fermenting beer that is generally stronger and more complex than a bottom fermenting beer (lagers). Warm fermentation temperatures make the yeast inefficient, resulting in the presence of certain sugars and esters within the beer. This gives the ale a fruity more complex taste.

LIBRARY AMBER ALE

The art of hand crafting ales is on the rise and nowhere is it more prevalent than in the Library Amber Ale. After weeks of care in the brewing process, the resulting ale is a light bodied amber, with a mild sweetness and a spicy hop finish.

LIBRARY I.P.A.

The Library India Pale Ale is definitely not for everyone. True to the LP.A. style, it has a dominant, almost overpowering hop bitterness. A three week dry hopping process was used to preserve the ale, as was done centuries ago, when this style of beer first came about.

A LOOK BACK AT LIBERTY D'S

LIBERTY DRUG was established in 1942 by a young pharmacist, W.W. (Bill) Cook, and quickly became a center of activity for both students and members of the Norman community. The stores name was a patriotic reminder of the country's World War II effort.

During the early 1940's, students were not allowed to have cars, so they spent their free time on Campus Corner. The busy center provided most of their needs from groceries to entertainment.

Usually in the fall, the streets of Boyd and Asp were often blocked off for pep rallies before big football games. Giant bonfires were started and Sooner players and coaches delivered inspiring speeches from flatbed trucks.

As you glance around Liberty's you will see many items that bring back the days of old. Many of the medicines above the bar are actual bottles left from the old drug store. The bar was brought to Liberty's from the basement of the Biltmore Hotel in Oklahoma City.

Today the owners of Liberty D's proudly maintain the high standards of operation set by Bill Cook fifty years ago. Liberty D's continues to serve not only the finest food but also has added a new mood with the addition of live music.

Paisano

(Dear friend)

remember about growing up. I recall spending a lot of time with my grandfather while my father was off fighting in the war. What we did most was eat—because my grandfather "lived to eat." Italians seldom had dining rooms, so we ate in the kitchen. That's where we always gathered to talk, laugh, play, dream and most importantly—to enjoy lots of food!

No matter who dropped by, they were always welcomed with open arms.

In our kitchen at home, we always had white table cloths, a gallon jug of Grandfather's homemade wine and freshly picked white gladiolas in large vases in the middle of our long table.

My grandfather used to tell me that we should eat heartier foods in the cold winter months and lighter dishes in the hot summer months. At Romano's Macaroni Grill we are going to follow my grandfather's advice. Although the majority of our menu will remain the same throughout the year, as the seasons change, so will our menu.

We invite you to share in these timeless traditions, while enjoying the many creations of our passionate chefs.

Benvenuto nella famiglia!

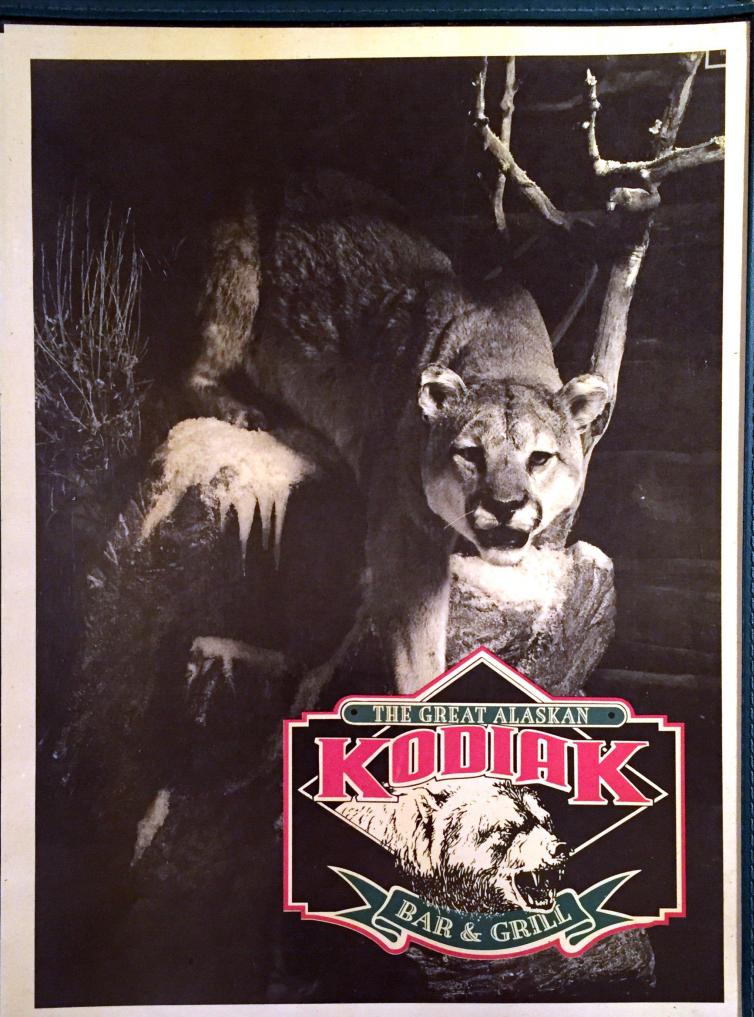

(Welcome to the family!)

choc™ beer: A beer style all its own. Originally brewed by the people of "Indian Territory", refined through the years by Italian immigrants to the recipe that we use in today's choc beer. choc beer is an unfiltered beer of a cloudy appearance with a malty yet fruity flavor. A great compliment to the generous portions of pasta that were a stable of the immigrants table and continue to be a fixture of Pete's Place® restaurant today. Hearty, but easy to drink. A handcrafted Krebs original.

Miners Light ™ Beer: The Italian immigrants came to Krebs to work in the coal mines that were prevalent in the area at the turn of the century. They wore a light on their hat to show the way through the mines, at the end of the day their "miners light" led the way to a nice tall, cold beer. A traditional American style beer, dry, light bodied yet full flavored with a touch of hop finesse, we present Miners Light beer to reflect the tradition of full flavor and sparkling golden brilliance that was so popular with the miners of early day Krebs.

Brewer's Choice Beer: Our brewer is continually searching for new and unique taste in beers. He therefore brews a variety of different beers. From these many beers he selects some of his favorite choices to share with you. Ask about the one he has currently chosen.

ISLAND CHICKEN CRISPERS

CONA BUNGEN

Hawaiian Cowboy

n February of 1793, the British ship HMS Discovery boasted as part of its cargo several head of cattle from California, a gift to His Majesty King Kamehameha 1 of Hawaii from young naval captain George Vancouver. So awed was the king by the exotic look of these strange, black, long-horned creatures, which he called "large hogs", that he decreed that none could be killed. Furthermore, his royal taboo granted the cattle freedom to roam and consequently their numbers increased vastly. In 1832, King Kamehameha 111 imported Mexican, Indian and Spanish vaqueros (cowboys) from California, then part of Mexico, to train Hawaiians in the fine art of ranching.

Hawaiians coined their own word for the vaqueros, from "Espanol" into "Paniolo" a name that means Hawaiian cowboy to this day.

By the end of the nineteenth century, the big island of Hawaii had become the center of cattle ranching for the islands, and the Paniolo had established himself as a vital part of the Hawaiian ranching culture and folklore.

Today, we at Kona Ranch Steak House have endeavored to capture the romance of the spirit of the Paniolo. Our menu is unique, combining traditional steak house favorites with flavorful Hawaiian specialties. So whether it's "hourty" or "aloha", you are most welcome at Kona Ranch!

ZIO'S WOODFIRED BRICK OVENS

These specially constructed brick ovens were designed and built for Zio's in Dallas, Texas, by Italian oven maker Renato Riccio. The two ovens weigh over 14,000 pounds and are composed primarily of concrete-like masonry and brick tiles.

The woodfired, domed masonry and brick oven has been used for centuries in Europe and is still widely used today as a cooking chamber for an endless variety of foods. In Italy, the oven is still popular as a Bread and Pizza oven, and many restaurants employ them as their primary cooking oven. The massive stone floor and domed roof of the oven retains heat and drafts naturally, providing an oven that is virtually never turned off. When the oven is initially fired up, it takes three days to totally dry and heat the masonry and brick mass and attain the proper temperature. After the oven is used during business hours, the doors are closed and the small amount of wood remaining in the oven continues to burn slowly during the night maintaining the oven heat for the next day's use. The wood oven is a very efficient cooking chamber and the burning wood imparts a delightful, subtle smokey flavor to the foods cooked in it.

Various hardwoods (we use white oak) are used for "fuel." They burn very clean and hot, maintaining a cooking temperature of about 800°F. The extremely hot stone floor cooks the fresh moist bread and pizza dough quickly and imparts a great flavor and texture. This cooking process results in a truly unique product.

It is our goal to provide for our customers affordable, made from scratch food that's served with a smile in a pleasant atmosphere. We hope that you have enjoyed your meal. Thank you for being our customer and please, return often.

BARBECUE

Q: BARBECUED OR GRILLED ... WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

BARBECUING IS THE ART OF ROASTING MEATS, USING INDIRECT HEAT FROM WOOD OR COALS AT 275° OR LESS, IN AN ENCLOSED OVEN.

GRILLING IS THE SEARING OF MEATS OVER DIRECT HEAT PREFERABLY CHARCOAL OR WOOD - AT TEMPERATURES OF 425° OR HIGHER.

Beef or Pork Burnt Ends,

ONLY barbecue masters can prepare these perfectly. Beef and pork tips are smoked overnight, until they are cut-with-a-fork tender, then drenched in our famous BBQ sauce....9.99

Sliced Beef Brisket,

A mound of our slow hickorysmoked beef brisket that's been roasting overnight in our closed-pit smokers, perfectly seasoned and sliced thin....9.99

Filet of Pork,

A tender whole filet, marinated, smoked and dipped in our world famous sauce, then carved into medallions. This house specialty won first place in the American Royal Barbecue Contest. Only a limited number are prepared each night....16.99

Hickory Chicken,

Nobody does this better. Fresh 1/2 chicken, marinated and dusted with our spices. Slow-smoked and glazed with our original BBQ sauce...9.99

Barbecuer's Tip *1168
Properly smoked meats will have a pink ring around the edges. The pink ring around the edges.
wider the ring the better the flavor.

Our Kid's menu has food that comes in portions more your size and it's more affordable for mom and dad, too.

If you're hunting for something to do while you're waiting on your meal we've got some great toys in the toybox near the hostess stand.

Authentic barbecue is a labor of love involving hours of preparation. We use only the finest lean meats and trim them twice--before and after the seasoning process. The technique of closed pit cooking imparts flavors that cannot be matched by other methods.

A distinguishing feature of KC Masterpiece Restaurants is its dual cooking methods. With smokers and a wood burning grill, the restaurant can offer both slow-cooked barbecue and flamegrilled specialties. Hickory logs provide the smoldering embers for smoking meats and the open fire for grilling. Both grilled and smoked items are perfectly complimented by KC Masterpiece Barbecue Sauces.

The same family that developed the award-winning KC Masterpiece. Sauces developed these peoplepleasing restaurants. Many of the house specialties are Davis Family favorites, made from recipes that have passed the test of time and the tastes of three generations. Other menu items are the creations of our expert pit-masters.

Closed pit and open flame cooking require the burning of wood. Because we need this valuable resource, we plant two trees for every one that we use. We are helping to re-plant the forests of Yellowstone National Park through the National Arbor Day Foundation.
